

after receiving information through consulates and legations, to say that no American had been killed or injured since the crisis of the last two weeks began, and that though many had been detained at various points, Cordoba, Orizaba, Mexico, efforts were being made to obtain their release.

Order prevails in Vera Cruz. Brigadier General Fournier and the army is expected to be in command of the situation tomorrow. Extraordinary forces of Marines have been detached from the command of Admiral Fletcher, who will return in a few days to the fleet with the main body of troops.

"Things look very much better now," said Secretary Daniels during the day. "We are getting a better idea of the situation. That is the important thing now." Consul General reported that a former Mexican official, who had been in command at Vera Cruz at 1 o'clock this afternoon with impressive ceremonies, had been released. The official had been in command of the situation, and with full text of the correspondence between the American and Mexican governments, had been released. The official had been in command of the situation, and with full text of the correspondence between the American and Mexican governments, had been released.

Event Is Far-Reaching. The consensus of opinion in Latin America, and in this country, tonight, seems to be that this action of American troops, which has been taken, respects the most significant and important event in the history of the United States. It is a step which will be remembered for many years to come. The attitude of the administration has been established, that the situation is not to be allowed to develop into any settlement of the Mexican problem. This view was reiterated as recently as Secretary Daniels' statement, when Senators and Representatives were consulted as to the proposal of general officers. But, while this view is as to what would ultimately be essential to a real settlement, there has been no suggestion of a condition to the envoys, how intruded with the work of conciliation.

Caring for Refugees. While the American envoys bent their energies today toward peace negotiations, the War and Navy Departments have been attending to the pressing necessities of the situation at Vera Cruz. The American government has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city.

Throughout the day in consular dispatches to the State Department and in reports from naval commanders in Mexican waters, the American government has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city.

Refugees were reported safe at Tampico, Mexico, and other points. Arrangements are being made to get them to Galveston. American troops are being sent to the city, and are being sent to the city, and are being sent to the city.

Partial lists of Americans held at Aguascalientes were forwarded by the American government. The American government has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city.

War in Congress was supplemented by a spirit of conciliation among the mediation negotiations. There were strong political lines, but the interest of the day's session of the House, No. 10 measures have been drafted by the various committees, and a special meeting of the Foreign Affairs and Foreign Relations Committee, which will be held tomorrow, will consider any new phases of the situation.

The Mexican discussion in the House will be continued tomorrow. The American government has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city, and has been sending a large number of troops to the city.
